

The value added chain for organic fine chemistry and API manufacturing at one booth

Eight companies out of the Middle German fine chemistry region present their expertise at the Chemspec Europe 2017 in Munich together at one joint booth. Due to varied opportunities and a broad portfolio, the highly specialized companies complement each other perfectly. Covering a wide range of the value chain for organic fine chemistry and active pharmaceutical ingredient (API) manufacturing, visitors of booth P130 will find a counterpart for all different types of questions. Business partners will benefit from extensive competencies and long-term experience of each company. The combination of all individual working areas will help to achieve the challenges of the future, which include issues regarding workability studies, production of high quality chemicals and APIs ranging from milligrams to multi-tons, development and scale up of production processes as well as responding to regulatory queries.

The close network and collaboration existing between the eight exhibitors are leading to efficient and custom-tailored solutions.
